Course Description

General Education Course (Focus on Humanities). This course explores various ways of understanding the human self and its relation to the world. Through a consideration of what can be known, what is worth valuing, what reality is, and how human communities should be composed and regulated, the course deals with central themes that arise from the human quest for deeper self-understanding.

Course Goal

General Goal (9): Students will cultivate their intellect, imagination, and creativity as they develop an understanding of how social, cultural, linguistic, artistic, religious, philosophical, and historical contexts have shaped the thoughts and actions of people worldwide.

Student Learning Outcomes

- SLO9.1 Understand how various forms of written, oral, musical, visual, and bodily expression contribute to human knowledge and experience.
- SLO9.2 Utilize knowledge of various critical and theoretical frameworks to analyze and respond to works in humanities and the arts.
- SLO9.4 Interpret texts and other cultural products in ways that reflect informed understanding of relevant contextual factors, including socio-cultural influence and cultural traditions, perspectives, and behavioral patterns.
- SLO9.5 Analytically compare the influences of community, institutions, and other constructions such as class, gender, and race on the ways of thinking, believing, and acting in cultural and historical settings other than one's own.

Course Requirements

Work Load Estimates: In a typical week, you should expect to devote about 6–10 hours to the reading and writing for this course. This is time beyond class attendance. Sometimes the readings are long and sometimes they are quite difficult. You will need to invest time in preparing for class.

Means of Assessment: (A) Four exams and (B) low-stakes assignments (in-class quizzes, in-class writings, assigned writings, etc.). The exams are in-class (closed book and closed notes). Reading quizzes will be a regular in-class feature. Read the material carefully (take reading notes, mark up your text, whatever it takes to understand the material). If you do not come to class well prepared and on-time, your grade will suffer. Almost every class will have something that will contribute to the low-stakes grade. I do not allow make up work except in cases which can be documented for (a) a death in your family, (b) extreme illness, (c) religious observation, and (d) you are representing MSU in some official capacity. My expectation is 100% attendance.

Extra Credit: I offer no extra credit. Take your grades seriously from day one of this course. At the end of the semester there is nothing you can do to improve your grade other than do your best on the remaining assignments.

Grading Proportions

Exams: 60%

Low-stakes assignments: 40%

Advice

- Read the material carefully and take reading notes as you go along. Mark up the text in meaningful ways as you read. While I sometimes will give some guidance on the material before you read it, some of it will still be difficult. Be prepared to read and re-read the material. Philosophy cannot be skimmed.
- Take good lecture notes and rewrite them as soon as you can after class. This will aid you greatly in understanding the material.
- Organize study/discussion groups. One of the best ways to understand philosophy is to talk about it.
- Look up terms you don't understand.
- Write summaries of the readings, and write up what you think are the muddiest points in your understanding of the material.
- Get help with any writing problems that you know you have. I can help you and the writing center can help you. I expect college-level reading and writing skills.
- Come to office hours and we can talk about the material. I am the most informed person you can talk to about this class. Or set up discussion groups and invite me to participate. Warning: my time becomes very tight before exams.

- Philosophy is a content-laden discipline. We will pay attention to a lot of fine-grained details. So while looking at the big picture helps, much of what we will attend to (and you will be responsible for) is at the micro level. The devil is in the details.
- Students may vary in their abilities to read and write at the college level. You can expect to acquire these abilities only if you honor all course policies, attend classes regularly, complete all assigned work in good faith and on time, and meet all other course expectations of you as a student.

Policies

- Students who cheat or plagiarize will fail the course with a grade of XF. Refer to the Academic Integrity Policies and Procedures. It is available at the reserve desk at Meyer Library and at http://www.missouristate.edu/policy/0p3_01_AcademicIntegrityStudents.htm.
- Reasonable accommodations are available for students with documented disabilities. If you have a disability and may need accommodations to fully participate in this class, please visit the Disability Resource Center. <http://www.missouristate.edu/disability/>
- Respectful, professional, and civil conduct is the expected norm for the class.
- You are expected to check your MSU email daily and respond to any email that I send you (seeking a response) within 24 hours. You do not need to respond to informative emails from me. Any emails sent to me should be written to a professional standard (see “How to Email Your Professor” on Blackboard).
- The schedule, policies, procedures, and assignments in this course are subject to change in the event of extenuating circumstances, by mutual agreement, or to ensure better student learning.
- The first day of class will include a review of the Emergency Response Policies: <http://www.missouristate.edu/safetran/erp.htm>
- This class is technology free. That is, use of cell phones, tablets, and laptops is forbidden (except for those whose documented disability requires an electronic accommodation). Bring your reading to class every day (well read and marked up). Take copious lecture notes with pen or pencil and paper. As a courtesy, if you would like to record classes, please inform me.
